Beth Tollar, M.S., CCC-SLP, is a New York State licensed and ASHA certified speech-language pathologist who specializes in the area of assistive technology. She has more than eighteen years' experience providing evaluations, treatments, trainings, and consultations with staff and families of children requiring assistive technology. Beth regularly consults with school districts across Central New York, and assists children with a wide variety of technology needs. She has presented numerous assistive technology workshops to area school districts, colleges, and parent support groups.

Beth received her certificate of clinical competence from the American Speech-Language Hearing Association (ASHA) in 2002, and is also a member of the Rehabilitation Engineering and Assistive Technology Society of North America (RESNA) as well as the United States Society for Augmentative and Alternative Communication (USAAC). She received her permanent New York State public school certificate in the area of speech and hearing handicapped in 2001. Beth joined the Burton Blatt Institute at Syracuse University as a faculty Fellow in January 2013, and is a consultant for the CHAT (Communication Hope through Assistive Technology) program. Beth is also an adjunct professor at Syracuse University where she teaches a graduate class on Assistive Technology in the Inclusive Classroom.
